Dr. Peter M. Wallace, of Spartanburg.

Dr. Peter M. Wallace, of the Spartanburg Gazette, died at Spartanburg Courthouse June 6, 1869, aged about seventy-two years.

6, 1869, aged about seventy-two years.

The deceased was born in Charleston, S. C., about 1797. He was a grandson of Abner Nash, member of the Continental Congress, and one of the earlier Governors of North Carolina, after whom the City of Nashville was named. The father of Dr. Wallace held some office connected with the Customhouse. An older brother of the subject of this notice owned a ship which was fitted out as a privateer when the war of 1812 began. His field of operations was along the coasts of France and England. Heathere became engaged to a French lady, whose parents required certified copies of the baptismal register, &c. The father prepared the becessary papers and sent them by the deceased, then a lad of fifteen. He was successful in ruaning the blockade of English vessels then around Charleston, and reached France in safety. He found, however, that his brother was married, and only a few days before had left to resume the command of his vessel in the English Channel. Neither Me ship nor its captain was ever heard from me ship nor its captain was ever heard from Young Wallace, unwilling to risk a return home under the circumstances, sought employment on a vessel engaged in the China trade. He followed the seas for a few years, visiting China, East Indies, South America, visiting China. East Indies, South America. Ac. He was on shore in France early in 1815, when Napoleon landed from Elba. He remembered distinctly the enthusiasm of the old soldiers, and the grief of the wives and mothers, when couriers brought the thrilling intelligence to the town where he was at the time.

A few years after, his vessel stopped at St. Helena for water and provisions, then the fallen chief was a prisoner there. With natural curiosity, he asked laave of absence from his ship to see the illustrious exile. A permit from an officer carried him through several lines of sentinels, but when in sight of the house he was stopped by a guard, who teld him that a pass from the Governor's hand was necessary to go farther. He waited some time, in the hope to see the distinguished prisoner come out into the piazza or yaid, but was compelled to leave with his curiosity unsatisfied.

On his return home he studied medicine. Coming to upper Carolina in early manuood, On his return home he studied medicine.

Coming to upper Carolina in early manuood, he spent severa years teaching, and then practiced medicine for many years in the lower part of Spartanburg and in Union. About twenty-five years ago he became editor of the Spartan, which had been started a short time before. In his hands it became a controlling up-country paper. His career as editor embraced the exciting period of 1850 and the few years precoding and following. He was independent and decided in his views, simple yet pointed and forcible in his style, having many of the qualifications of a "good paragraphist." After closing his connection with the press he engaged in manufacturing, but with less success than fellowed his his efforts as publisher. The failure of his plans in tusiness, with the eventful years which soon followed, advancing age and declining health, all these made their mark on his spirits and energies, physical and mental.

declining health, all these made they mark on his spirits and energies, physical and mental. In 1867 he resumed his duties in connection with the press, but the editorial "right hand" had forgotten much of "ris cunning."

It was only at intervals that his pen moved so as to remuch his readers of his younger days. He struggled manfully against the inroads of age and disease, on a frame of unusual tenacity and vigor. About two weeks since, as he passed from his office, his feeble gait and wasted appearance drew forth expressions of sympathy and uneasy forebodings from a groupe of friends as he passed them. A physician present said: "This is probably the last time we will see the old gettleman in our streets." The sad prediction was literally true. He went home, to die. His closing days were spent under the roof of his only son, where from the family and triends he received those attentions and ministries which our nature craves in the critical hours when "heart and flesh" are failing.

Thus has passed away one of the older men orayes in the critical hours when "heart and flesh" are failing.

Thus has passed away one of the older men of our community, and perhaps the oldest editor in our State. His three score and ten years have been an eventful period in history. When he came into the world John C. Callouns and william Lowndes were at school, Robert Y. Hayne was playing in the streets of Charleston, Petigra and Cheves had just been admitted to practice before Burke, Bay and Grimke. John Rutledge was then Chief-Justice of his county. Hugh Rutledge, John Drayton, the Pmekneys. Ind. David Ramsay, were in their prime! These, with their cotemporaries, were laboring together, by public and private influence, with hand and tongue and pen, to add to the resources, physical, intellectual and moral, of the State where Providence cast their lot.

"O! Rise some other such!"

AFFAIRS IN THE STATE.

Georgetown.

Old Georgetown is waking up. A velocipede has actually made its appearance in the town, propelled by its owner, Mr. R. C. Wallace. The sandy streets, however, made locomotion rather heavy work. Kershaw.

The crops in the immediate neighborhood of Liberty Hill, Kershaw County, are suffering for rain. No rain has fallen there in near four weeks. Nevertheless, the crops are quite promising, and enterprising planters are pushing things ahead with characteristic energy. Greenville.

A meeting for the encouragement of the air line rathroad was held in Greenville on sales-day. The committee appointed to communi-cate with the president and directors of the company, were given until August to report. Resolutions were adopted asking the municipal authorities for subscriptions, and asking the selectmen to hold meetings and collect subscriptions. A barbeone is to be given in July. Union.

The Unionville Times comes to us handsomely clad in a bran new dress.

The Union County Agricultural Society met on Monday last. adopted a consultation, and appointed a committee of five to canvass the district in bahalf of the State Agricultural So ciety. The following resolution was also adopted: Resolved That the president of this society appoint a committee of three to protest against the wanto; and intolerable taxation enforced on the landed property of the State, and to invite co-operation with us by the State and other county societies, whose oppression is common with our own. Ocenee

W. M. Wooden, of Wainalla, has been appointed a magistrate by Governor Scott for the County of Occuee.

The Walhalla Courier says: "The intensely warm weather of the past week or ten days has been, since the recent rains, succeeded by cold, unusual for the season. The crops, however, have improved wonderfully, and now present a healthy arpea ance. Wheat crops in this section are generally finer than for severil years past."

The interest of the State in the Keowee and Tuckaseegee Turnpike Company, originally valued at $6000 was sold by the County Commissioners in pursuance of an act paysed at the last session of the Logislature for the sum of $13. The county was the purenaser.

Laurens,

Wednesday last was fleturn Day for this district—a yout eighty cases being returned. This is the smallest issue since the war.

Bob Young, a black fellow, who shot down, with a shot gun, a colored man by the name of John Dial, at Chinton, in the fall of 1867, has been captured. He is in jail at Concord, Cabarras County, North Curolina, and awa is the requisition of Governor Sout.

The a ter dance on sale-day was small, comparatively. No sales by public officers that we heard of. Reports of the wheat clop favorable; cool we ther and great rams keeping the diminutive cotton in the background, and the grass making strides by day and by night.

He was a practicing physician, and stood at the head of his profession, enjoying an extensive practice, and was admired and respected by all who knew Lameaster. Mr. Andrew Johnson has just completed a fine flour mill situate on Lynch's Creek, in Lan-

The Lancaster Ledger says: "A genuine cotton caterpillar, so-called, taken from a plantation a few miles south of the village, has been left at our office. It is claimed by professional ones that there is no mistake as to the identity." A correspondent sends the following crop re-

June 9:

The condition of the crops in this county is not good. Cotton stands are bad and a good deal of it is not growing or promising to make anything like a crop. The county will average two-thirds or three-quarters of a stand, but will not make more than two-thirds or threequarters of a crop. Cotton is very backward and will require favorable seasons and a very late fall to make the above figures. Corn is late fall to make the above figures. Corn is also late, and we can't expect to gather full crops. Wheat is gretty fair. Oats looks well and are promising.

In the colored people I see no change or improvement. They seem to take no interest or very little in the farm, whether working for wages or part of the crop. Our stands of cotton and corn would have been better if we could have got the thedmen to have taken the interest that they should have had in the crop. They would cover the colton or corn when ploughing, and cut it up when hoeing. The area in cotton and corn will average about as it was last year. it was last year.
